KEY RISKS

What are the key risks associated with this product?

Market risk	Market risk refers to the possibility that an investment will lose value because of a general decline in financial markets, due to economic, political and/or other factors, which will result in a decline in the fund's NAV.
Specific security risk	Prices of a particular security may fluctuate in response to the circumstances affecting individual companies. As such, adverse price movements of a particular security invested by the fund may adversely affect the fund's NAV and unit price.
Liquidity risk	Liquidity risk refers to the ease of liquidating an asset depending on the asset's volume traded in the market. If the fund holds assets that are illiquid, or are difficult to dispose of, the value of the fund will be negatively affected when it has to sell such assets at unfavourable prices.
Currency risk	If the fund invests in assets denominated in foreign currency, the fund may be exposed to currency fluctuation risks. If the currencies in which the investments are denominated depreciate against the local currency, the fund's NAV may be adversely affected and vice versa. To mitigate such risk, the fund may undertake hedging strategies. However, the fund would not benefit from any potential upside if currencies move in the opposite direction of the hedging strategy.
Country risk	Investments of the fund in any country may be affected by changes in the economic and political climate, restriction on currency repatriation or other developments in the law or regulations of the country in which the fund invests in. For example, the deteriorating economic condition of such countries may adversely affect the value of the investments undertaken by the fund in those affected countries. This in turn may cause the NAV of the fund or prices of units to fall.
Industry/Sector risk	Industry/sector risk arises when the fund is predominantly invested in specific industries or sectors. Due to the reduced degree of diversification by industries/sectors, the fund may be more vulnerable to factors associated with the particular industries/sectors it is invested in. Any material changes associated with the property investment and development sector and REITs may have an adverse impact on the NAV of the fund.

You are advised to read the fund's prospectus and understand the risks involved and, if necessary, consult your professional adviser(s) before investing.

Notes:

* The figure shown is for the period since the fund's commencement (30 July 2007).

** Prior to 1 January 2009, the fund's benchmark, the Dow Jones Asia Pacific Real Estate Sector Index<sup>SM</sup>, was customised to the following weights, i.e. 20% Japan, 20% Australia, 20% Malaysia and the balance of 40% for the rest of the countries within the index universe including Hong Kong, Indonesia, New Zealand, the Philippines, Singapore, Taiwan, Thailand and South Korea.

Effective from 1 January 2009, the benchmark of the fund has been replaced with a customised index by S&P Dow Jones Indices, LLC based on the constituents within the real estate sector of S&P BMI Asia Pacific Index customised to 20% Japan, 20% Australia, 20% Malaysia and the balance 40% for the rest of the countries within the index universe currently including China 'H' Shares, Hong Kong, Indonesia, New Zealand, the Philippines, Singapore, Taiwan, South Korea and Thailand. The real estate sector is as defined by the then-current Global Industry Classification Standard. The new benchmark index is more representative of the performance of the stock markets which it represents.
